Quarterly Report, March 2012

Highlights

- Several target areas identified throughout Dandaragan Trough, with shallow, high grade glauconite.
- Process testwork confirms low-cost beneficiation route.

Dandaragan Trough Project

This project is focussed on exploiting the large glauconite deposits present in the Dandaragan trough, which commences less than 60km to the north of Perth, (fig 1). The objective is to produce potash fertiliser from the potassium in the glauconite. To that end the Company has two parallel programmes,

- exploration, to identify the thickest, shallowest and highest grade deposits, and
- Process development, to identify the most cost-effective process of producing Potash

Exploration

A drilling programme of 153 holes, totalling 8,300,metres was completed during the quarter, and was reported on 3 April 2012. Ten target areas have been identified with significant (+3%K₂O) grades, low overburden ratios and thickness's of greater than 10m (see figure 1). These areas will now have follow up drilling, with the intention of defining a JORC resource by September. Intersections above 3.0% K₂O within 6m of the surface are presented below.

The drilling appears to confirm the geological model that the most prospective locations are on slopes, on elevated ground, where the greensand units have not been eroded and where weathering is minimal.

Process Development

Work on extracting the potassium from the glauconite matrix has continued. Results of screening and magnetic separation testwork on a sample of greensand from one of the target areas showed that the K₂O grade can be increased from 2.8% to 6.2%, with a potassium recovery of 75%, by simple screening, desliming and magnetic separation. Further work will be carried out on samples from the ten target areas, with the objective of increasing the K₂O recovery and product grade.

A number of leaching tests have been completed and commercial grades of Muriate of Potash (MOP, potassium chloride) and Sulphate of Potash (SOP, potassium sulphate) have been produced.

Work continues in evaluating and comparing different process routes for potash extraction. As part of this, significant new and innovative intellectual property (IP) has been created. Investigations have commenced as how to use this IP for maximum shareholder advantage.

Langey Project

PWN has entered into a joint venture with a wholly owned subsidiary of Heron Resources on the Langey project, close to Derby, WA, which is prospective for phosphates and glauconite. In the quarter planning was completed for a sampling programme which is scheduled for the June 2012 quarter.

Corporate

100,000 shares were issued as part of the Company's ESOP.

At the end of the quarter, the company has 76.337 million shares, (41.8% of which are escrowed) and 1.95 million options issued.
